1990: Military family brought me to Tacoma (could have lived in the Midwest or east coast)

1998-2006: Involved in legislative process and political campaigns as a page, volunteer, intern, and legislative assistant

1994-2006: Played the flute in symphony; received a scholarship to attend college

1998: Saw the original "Batman" for the first time. It added many quotes to my conversation repertoire.

2011: Married September 17, the anniversary of the creation of the US Constitution. The same day our country received its law, my husband received his law.

I grew up in a family who taught me a lot of about our heritage. Italian influences reign strong and I had the opportunity to travel to my ancestral homeland during college. I've had the opportunity to travel to St. Lucia, BC, Hawaii, and DC as well. My parents also taught me about loving and serving other people. A big part of our life is serving others, whether in-person or through child sponsorship. I've served in Mexico and my husband and I support a child in Central America. Currently, I serve my family, including my 9 month old son, Luca, as well as 10th graders at Oly.
